

BARRIERS and BORDERS

United Kingdom. State or Empire?

Friday, 14 July, 2023

9.30am – 5.00pm BST

Participants

Hugo Bromley

Postdoctoral Research Associate,
Centre for Geopolitics, University of Cambridge

Dr Hugo Bromley is a Research Associate at the Centre for Geopolitics at Cambridge, and a historian of English manufacturing and British political economy and geopolitics, focusing on the early eighteenth century. His PhD, completed at Cambridge, looked at how textile manufacturers and their employees shaped the formation of Britain after 1688. At the Centre, he coordinates the programme on the history and future of the UK Union. He is also an affiliated postdoctoral research associate at Robinson College, Cambridge.

Mary-Rose Cheadle

Administration and Research Officer,
Centre for History and Economics

Mary-Rose Cheadle is a graduate of the University of Exeter where she read French and Spanish and also trained to be a teacher. She has worked at the Institut Français d'Ecosse, Edinburgh, and the British Council, Paris where she managed scholarship programmes and events. In Cambridge Mary-Rose first worked at CRASSH in its formative years before coming to the Centre for History and Economics in 2005. At the Centre she is the coordinator of Barriers and Borders and of the Centre for History and Economics in Paris. She provides research and editorial assistance on Centre projects and related publications. These have included: The Cambridge History of Nineteenth-Century Political Thought, Religion and the Political Imagination, The 1848 Revolutions and European Political Thought, French Empires, and the managing of the Ariane de Rothschild Fellowship.

Sionaidh Douglas-Scott

Anniversary Chair in Law, Queen Mary University of London

Honorary Research Fellow, Lady Margaret Hall, University of Oxford

Sionaidh Douglas-Scott is Anniversary Chair in Law at Queen Mary University of London, formerly Professor of European and Human Rights Law, University of Oxford. Her past roles include Special Advisor, Scottish Parliament External & European Relations committee, 2015–2017; Major Leverhulme fellow, 2018–2021; LAPA fellow Princeton University, 2020–2021. Her new monograph, Brexit, Union and Disunion, will be available from Cambridge University Press from January 2024.

Gabriel Glickman

Lecturer in Early Modern British History

University of Cambridge

Gabriel Glickman is University Lecturer in Early Modern British History. He studied as an undergraduate and postgraduate at Pembroke College, Cambridge, and taught subsequently at the universities of Oxford and Warwick. His teaching and research concentrates on politics and religion in Britain and its overseas colonies c. 1660-1750.

His most recent book, The Making of an Imperial Nation: Colonization, Politics and English Identity was published by Yale University Press in 2023. His first book, The English Catholic Community 1688-1745: Politics, Culture and Ideology, was published in 2009. He has written articles in publications including the Journal of Modern History, Historical Journal, English Historical Review and Journal of British Studies.

Alvin Jackson FRSE Hon.MRIA MAE DArts (hon)

Sir Richard Lodge Professor of History

University of Edinburgh

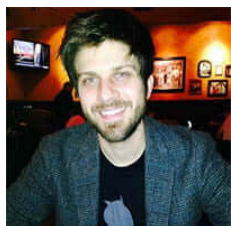

Alvin Jackson is Sir Richard Lodge Professor of History at the University of Edinburgh. He was educated at Corpus Christi College and Nuffield College Oxford. He has taught at University College Dublin, Boston College and - as Professor of Modern Irish History - at Queen's University Belfast. He is the author of seven books, including The Two Unions: Ireland, Scotland and the Survival of the United Kingdom, 1707-2007 (OUP, 2012), and has edited The Oxford Handbook of Modern Irish History (OUP, 2014). He is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Edinburgh, a Member of the Academia Europaea, and an honorary Member of the Royal Irish Academy. He also holds an honorary doctorate from University College Dublin.

Clare Jackson
Senior Tutor
Trinity Hall, Cambridge

Clare Jackson is the Senior Tutor of Trinity Hall and a historian fascinated by the rich and complex history of Stuart Britain and its Continental neighbours and global diaspora. She is the author of Charles II: The Star King (Allen Lane, 2016) in the 'Penguin Monarchs' series and of Devil-Land. England under Siege

1588-1688 (Allen Lane/Penguin, 2021). Winner of the Wolfson History Prize 2022, Devil-Land was selected as a 2021 'Book of the Year' by The Times, The Times Literary Supplement, The Daily Telegraph, The New Statesman and The Sydney Morning Herald and appeared first in the Wall Street Journal's recommendations for 'Holiday Gift Books 2021'. Clare has also presented a number of highly successful television programmes for the BBC, including The Stuarts (2014) and The Stuarts in Exile (2015) which are regularly repeated on the BBC, PBS, LondonLive and other channels. She is currently working on a life of James VI & I, to be published by Allen Lane/Penguin in March 2025, to coincide with the 400th anniversary of James's death.

Thomas Jones
Senior Lecturer in History
University of Buckingham

Dr Thomas Jones is a Senior Lecturer in History. He graduated with Distinction from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 2005, having double-majored in History and International Studies. He received a first Class MA in Modern History from King's College London in 2007 and was awarded a PhD in History from the University of Cambridge in 2010. He joined the faculty at Buckingham in 2012, having previously taught at Cambridge, Roehampton University, and Queen Mary University of London.

He is interested in the political and intellectual history of modern Europe, particularly from a transnational perspective. His forthcoming work, Liberty's Exile: A History of Political and Religious Asylum in Britain from the Reformation to the Twentieth Century, will be published by Harvard University Press. He is a member of the Royal Historical Society, the Raphael Samuel History Centre, and is a founding member of AsilEuropeXIX, an international team engaged in building a comparative history of exile in nineteenth-century Europe (<https://asileurope.huma-num.fr>).

Ira Katznelson
Ruggles Professor of Political Science and History
Columbia University
Deputy Director
Columbia World Projects

Ira Katznelson is Ruggles Professor of Political Science and History, and Deputy Director, Columbia World Projects. His 2013 Fear Itself: The New Deal and the Origins of Our Time was awarded the Bancroft Prize in History and the Woodrow Wilson Foundation Award in Political Science. Other books include Southern Nation: Congress and White Supremacy After Reconstruction (2018; co-authored with David Bateman and John Lapinski), and Liberal Beginnings: A Republic for the Moderns (2008; co-authored with Andreas Kalyvas).

Professor Katznelson, a fellow of the British Academy, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the American Philosophical Society, is a former president both of the American Political Science Association and the Social Science Research Council. He earned his BA at Columbia College and his PhD in History at the University of Cambridge, where he served in 2017-18 as Pitt Professor of American History and Institutions. Prior to his arrival at Columbia in 1994, where he also had been an assistant and associate professor, he had taught at the University of Chicago, where he served as chair of the Department of Political Science, and the New School for Social Research, where he was Dean of the Graduate Faculty.

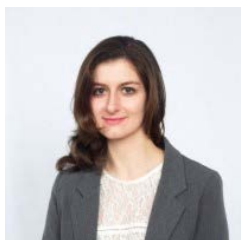

Max Lieberman
Privatdozent for Medieval History
University of Zurich

“Max Lieberman has been a “Privatdozent” in medieval history at Zurich’s History Department since 2015.

He teaches and conducts research on the following topics: history of the British Isles and Normandy in the High Middle Ages; borders (especially state formation, warfare, diplomacy, identities); chivalry (especially the dubbing ceremony and knighthood, emergence and spread of the chivalric ideal, honour in war and feud); and risk (contingency, decision making).

Max read History and English at the Universities of Zurich and Oxford (lic. phil. I, 2000). The following year he obtained a Master of Studies in Historical Studies (Medieval) at Oxford; he received his DPhil there in 2005, with a thesis on the creation and perception of the March of Wales in the High Middle Ages. From 2005 to 2009 he was a Research Fellow at Wolfson College, University of Cambridge. In 2010 he returned to the Department of History at the University of Zurich, having obtained an “Ambizione” grant of the Swiss National Science Foundation.

Anna Marchese
Senior Project Officer
Columbia World Projects

Anna Marchese is a Senior Project Officer at Columbia World Projects (CWP). She supports CWP's Research and Engagement division, which convenes scholarly and practitioner communities to address long-standing challenges to democratic futures. Anna came to CWP from the American Council of Learned Societies, where she administered academic fellowship programs in the humanities and related social sciences. She is a former chair of CKUT 90.3FM, a non-profit campus-community radio station based in Montreal, and has worked with WNYC, America Media, and the Association Mondiale Des Radiodiffuseurs Communautaires on various audio documentaries.

Conor Morrissey
Senior Lecturer in Irish and British History
King's College

Conor Morrissey is Senior Lecturer in Irish and British History in King's College London. He is the author of Protestant nationalists in Ireland, 1900-1923 (Cambridge University Press) and the co-editor of Southern Irish Loyatism, 1912-1949 (Liverpool University Press, 2020). Before coming to King's, Conor held posts in Trinity College Dublin, the National Museum of Ireland, and Hertford College, University of Oxford.

Gareth Stedman Jones
Director, Centre for History and Economics, University of Cambridge
Professor of the History of Ideas, Queen Mary University of London

Gareth Stedman Jones FBA is Professor of the History of Ideas at Queen Mary University of London. Prior to this he was Professor of Political Science, at Cambridge from 1997 to 2010. He is a Director of the Centre for History and Economics, a Life Fellow of King's College, and a Fellow of the British Academy and of the Royal Historical Society.

Significant publications include Outcast London (1971), An End to Poverty? (2004); Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels, The Communist Manifesto (2002); Religion and the Political Imagination, co-edited with Ira Katznelson (2010); The Cambridge History of Nineteenth-Century Political Thought, co-edited with Gregory Claeys (2011) and The 1848 Revolutions and European Political Thought, co-edited with Douglas Moggach (2018). His monograph Karl Marx: Greatness and Illusion was published by Penguin in 2016 and has since been translated into nine languages.

His major research interest is the history of British and European political thought from the aftermath of the French Revolution to the First World War and he is currently working on a study to be called the Victorian Enlightenment which focuses on mid-Victorian England, particularly seen through the eyes of Karl Marx and George Eliot.